

March 1, 2013

Manhattan Real Estate for Families

A roundup of luxurious new NYC buildings - and one community classic - with multi-bedroom units and kid-friendly amenities.

93 Worth | 93 Worth Street

Chiseled from TriBeCa's distinctive architectural tableau, 93 Worth is a long-established commercial property turned luxury condominium. Restored and modernized from its industrial foundation, 93 Worth provides the conveniences of modern loft living with a surprising level of amenities. Offering 92 units, residents and their families can choose from single-occupancy studio spaces to sprawling four-bedroom spreads. Walking distance to seven subway stations and 14 different lines, the location pairs the conveniences of downtown living with all the modern amenities New Yorkers have come to expect from a luxury condominium. Loft spaces feature customized seven-foot windows, solid wood doors, high ceilings, and exposed steel columns. In addition to round-the-clock concierge and doorman service, the building features a roof terrace with unobstructed views, a revamped fitness center, and a children's playroom. And for the canine-loving families out there, the building offers residents their own on-site dog washing station! 93worth.com

